A LONG LICENSE COURT

TAKING THREE DAYS TO DISPOSE OF APPLICATIONS.

All the Old Places Licensed—The Two New Applications Were Turned Down.

License court began on last Friday continued Saturday and came to a conclusion on Monday, covering a longer period of time than had been devoted to the hearing of license applications for many years. There was a larger number of remonstrances than usual.

The greater number of applications were quickly disposed of with the decree, "license granted, bond approved," being the following tavern licenses: Catharine Lerew of Arendtsville, Geo. B. Hoover of Bendersville, Charles R. Altland of Abbottstown, Aaron Schlosser of Biglerville, John L. Brown and William Sunday of East Berlin, Geo. J. Kebil of Fairfield, John P. Martin, John H. Fagan, K. H. Skinner, Owen F. Brunner, Charles Strasbaugh, Benjamin W. Kindig, Jr., and Elise Braunreuter of Gettysburg, Lewis Eline, Charles W. Huff and Eugene V. Devine of Littlestown, Jacob H. Seifert and Clarence C. Dudrear of McSherrystown, Chas. T. Hersh and Francis L. Fleshman of New Oxford, Thomas W. Eagle of Cashtown, A. M. Biddle of White Hall, John M. McKim of Mt. Rock, John Wagner of Bonneauville, Felix H. Decker of Hampton and F. Mc. Thomas of Hunterstown.

Restaurant licenses granted were to Peter P. Eisenhart of East Berlin, John N. Weaver of Gettysburg, Rudolph J. Fuchs and Clement F. Staub of McSherrystown. Wholesale liquor license to John Kimple of Gettysburg, and bottler's license to Theodore Kimple, manager of the Cumberland Valley Brewing Co. at Gettysburg.

Contested Applications.

The first of the contested cases to be taken up was that of Geo. C. Smith of York Springs for tavern license. The case of John Knight of the same place was heard at the same time. One application contained fifteen and the other seventeen names and the remonstrance named a number of the signers as not being reputable citizens, as addicted to the use of liquor to extent of intoxication. The purpose of the remonstrance was that deducting the petitioners who had been objected to, there would not be twelve reputable petitioners to either application. The remonstrators had no evidence to offer to support their allegations and the Court severely criticised the position of the remonstrators, coming into court making grave charges without supporting the same by evidence. The petitioners alleged that they had brought by subpoena into court every petitioner who had been attached and the remonstrators. The Court said the burden of proving the allegations in the remonstrance was upon those who made them and for want of the proof there was no objection to the petitions and licenses of Geo. C. Smith and John Knight of York Springs were granted and bonds approved.

The next contested case taken up was that of Chas. D. Miller of Abbottstown for tavern license. Three remonstrances had been filed, one by 31 electors of the town, second by 58 residents, and taxpayers, many of them women, and third by 44 taxpayers of immediate neighborhood. D. A. Miller, to whom license was granted last year, stated that house had been closed from April 1 to Jan. 1st. It was argued that this condition showed that license was unnecessary. The Court was of the opinion that as place had been licensed for years the necessity had been established unless a condition could be proven which would show the contrary. Karl Katz, the brewer of York, owns the house asked to be licensed. License was granted and bond approved.

Application of tavern license of Lewis S. Culp of McSherrystown was next heard. He had the names of 225 electors of McSherrystown to his petition out of not quite 400 voters. The remonstrance contained names of 118 citizens from that borough and vicinity, about [illegible] from the borough. It was shown that applicant had put up a large three story hotel building with [illegible] rooms besides rooms [illegible] for his family. Four other licensed places exist in McSherrystown and it was sought to trace the remonstrance [illegible] to one of the hotels. At the conclusion of the hearing the license was refused.

The hearing of the application of [illegible] J. Staub for tavern license at Bittinger was next [illegible] but took up so much time that before the conclusion was interrupted to take up the wholesale liquor license of J. Harry Stine for Littlestown. This petition was opposed by remonstrance containing several hundred [illegible] and after a brief hearing license was refused.

The Staub application for Bittinger was concluded on Monday. There were [illegible] on the re[illegible]. There was testimony as to the place and the applicant. It appeared that Mr. Schmuck of Hanover, had bought the Bittinger [illegible] [illegible] and had asked to sell hotel to a [illegible] at a certain price if it had a license. The remonstrators satisfied the Court that license should not be issued to applicant and after a long fight to prevent issuance of any license the hearing terminated in order being made that license should be issued to such a party as would be satisfactory to the Court when suggested at a later time.

Five Stables Destroyed by Fire.

Five stables were destroyed by fire on last Saturday night or rather Sunday morning, and the sixth building, a blacksmith shop, was so burned that it may be useless to repair same. The alarm was given at 12 o'clock and the night was bitter cold and it was some little time before enough firemen gathered to take the apparatus to the fire, and when the engine reached the corner of Chambersburg and Franklin streets the fire plug was found frozen and to thaw it open and make the attachment took more time and it was about fifteen minutes before a stream of water could be turned on the fire. Our firemen made a fast fight with the flames as soon as they had the water and in a few minutes had it under control.

The fire started in the stable on the lot of Misses Kerr on Chambersburg street, and on side toward house. It communicated at once with the stable on lot immediately adjoining, owned by Misses Kerr and to the stable on the Crawford lot. The fire leaped across the alley and the stables of Craig Geiselman and the one on lot of S. R. Foulk, tenanted by Wm. L. King, were soon in a blaze and all furiously burning at one time with a stream of sparks traveling southward, which the snow on the roofs prevented from doing harm. The roof of the old blacksmith shop fronting on Franklin street had caught and the building seemed doomed when the firemen had succeeded in getting water and brought the fire to an end.

Everything in the stables was taken out and the losses will be the buildings a little feed and a few chickens. The losses may run from $100 to $200 for the stables and the total loss may run from $600 to $700.

RATIONAL CURE FOR ECZEMA.

No More Dosing the Stomach—Cure the Skin Through the Skin.

When you have a scratch on your hand you wash it out and cleanse it and then the skin cures itself. You do not take blood medicine to cure a festered wound.

The fact that eczema is a skin disease and not a blood disease is evident from statistics which show nearly all eczema sufferers are perfectly healthy in all other ways except as to their skin. If the eczema patients were really suffering from an inward malady, the entire body and not only the skin would be diseased.

You can prove immediately the relief of a true skin cure by using oil of wintergreen as compounded by D. D. D. Prescripton.

This liquid attacks the disease germs, numbing them while building up the healthy tissue of the skin. We have now handled this meritorious and thoroughly scientific remedy for so long and have seen its reliable results so many times that we freely express our confidence. For sale at People's Drug Store.

Lecture by Senator Gore.

Thomas P. Gore, the blind U. S. Senator from Oklahoma, was the second [illegible] in the Y. M. C. A. course, given last Friday evening in Brua Chapel. The subject of Senator Gore's lecture was "Am I My Brother's Keeper," and was well worth the hearing for the [illegible] brotherhood of man thought that pervaded it and for the choice language in which the thought was clothed. After hearing the lecture it could well be understood how Senator Gore had become such a force in Oklahoma that his people gave him the honor of being their first representative in the U. S. Senate.

The next entertainment in the course is the Commonwealth Ladies' Orchestra, a combination of ten members, who have been received enthusiastically wherever heard. The orchestra will be here Thursday of next week Jan. 28.

Lincoln Memorial Highway.

News from Washington are very hopeful of the passage of some bill that will authorize the highway. The sentiment in both Houses is said to be overwhelmingly in favor of the highway but that it is possible the size of appropriation first asked for may have to be modified but that the construction of the road will be authorized.

Governor Crothers and the Maryland Road Commissioners have been talking about a conference with Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania and his Highway Dept. looking to extensions and connections to the Lincoln Highway to Gettysburg to be authorized by Congress and this suggestion opens up big possibilities for Gettysburg.

Clerical Changes.

Rt. Rev. John W. Shanahan, Bishop of the Harrisburg diocese has made the following changes: Rev. Fr. Thomas Johnson, assistant at Gettysburg to be an assistant at the Harrisburg Cathedral. Rev. Fr. Charles Heiser visited Gettysburg last week to take up the consideration of locating a shoe factory in Gettysburg. He interviewed a number of people of the town and intimated that if he gets the encouragement he desires he will proceed with the establishment of a plant in this town. He looked at land in southern part of the town for a location.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING—

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO TO GET READY FOR THE 50th ANNIVERSARY?

That is a question that is up to the owner and proprietor of ever hotel of the town as well as every citizen. The hotels can do much for the town, they can attract the visitors and at a resort such as Gettysburg, attracting visitors is the very life blood of the place. Or they can repel the visitor. When the hotels are as good or better than to be found at other places it means much to the town.

Gettysburg has seen important changes in the character of its hotels since the battle. At that time the hotels were of the old-fashioned tavern variety. The battlefield attracted the American patriot and traveler and in years the hotels took on a complete change and this town became noted for its modern hotel, away ahead of towns of similar size and as good as to be found in many cities. Large hotels of many rooms, well heated and lighted, with more than the average table, and at moderate prices. The world does not, however, stand still and this is true of hotels and hotel keeping.

Go to the best city hotels and note how the interior comforts have vastly increased. Many of the rooms with baths, all with stationary washing conveniences, with beds and bedding that in no particular suggests cheapness. The visitor is not offended with any appointment of cheapness, much of that which he comes in contact with is of the best and this applies to the table, its linen, service, cooking and eatables, and all this can be had at moderate prices. When the traveler comes to the country town he is willing to pay the same price but of course wants the same conveniences and comforts and the same nice care so as not to be offended with cheapness. There are country towns that have tried the experiment and have so attracted the visitor that the hotels have become better paying propositions than at any previous time in the history of hotel keeping. There are hotels making big money for their proprietors and developing the home town by furnishing the best to the visitor and they are doing business the whole year around.

The Gettysburg hotels with the battlefield park here, with its many attractions, with the Lincoln Memorial Highway hopefully in sight, with the 50th anniversary coming on has such a future in sight and hotel owners and proprietors should get busy, renovating, remodeling and refurnishing to give a service equal to the best to be found anywhere.

WINTER PRIMARY.

Every citizen should note that on Saturday of this week, January 23, there will be a winter primary at the regular election place from noon until evening. There are four districts where the primary will not be held, but nominations made by both parties according to the old law. These four districts are Biglerville, East Berlin, Highland and York Springs, and will nominate tickets by the old method. This applies to both parties in these districts. In all other districts, Democrats and Republicans will make nominations by the winter primary method.

This method is that every citizen goes to the polls and receives a ticket of the party he belongs to and votes for his choice of candidates for the respective offices and if the ticket does not contain the name of the man he desires to vote for, he writes in the name.

In all the townships nominations are to be made for school directors, supervisors, tax collector, auditor, judge of elections and inspectors, and in certain districts, justice of the peace and clerks will be nominated. In the boroughs nominations are to be made for town council, school directors, tax collector, auditor, judge of elections and inspectors, and in several boroughs, mayors and justice of the peace. Those receiving the largest number of votes at the primaries [illegible] Democratic and Republican candidates [illegible] the respective offices at the February election.

ful of men go to the primary and name a tax collector whose reputation for honesty is not of the best and afterwards he lives up to his reputation, aren't the people who stayed away from the primary more responsible than any one else? They could have prevented what happened. The character of the tickets nominated at the winter primary is up to the people and when every man does his duty at the primary as he does at the election, government will begin at the right place, with the people, the true democracy.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL.

A dispatch last week from Washington stated that a memorial to Lincoln was contemplated in the shape of a thirty acre park in Washington containing a million dollar monument to Lincoln. The dispatch stated that it was part of the plan for the beautification of Washington and that it would cost five million to acquire the lands and buildings thereon. Speaker Cannon was quoted as in favor of the memorial.

The report seemed one to which little credence could be given as being contrary to all that had been said or heard about the Lincoln Memorial Highway. The Lincoln Commission was appointed by Congress to take up the subject of a memorial. The commission had but one memorial to suggest and the chairman of the commission, Hon. J. T. McCleary, has shown many reasons why the Lincoln Memorial Highway is the most appropriate memorial that could be authorized. He said among other things that a monument would be in contrast with the Washington monument and that such a contrast would be improper. A million dollar monument in a five million dollar park would present a marked contrast with the Washington monument, which the special commission appointed by Congress has said would be improper and it is not to be supposed that Congress is going to throw aside the views and study of the man appointed to investigate and report what should be done.

The only intimation of objection to the Lincoln Highway was the one of cost, yet the contracting scheme of last week proposes to spend five millions for a park and a million for a monument as against the three million called for by the Lafean bill.

The scheme of the park was admitted to be according to the plans for the beautification of Washington. Congress would certainly not permit a scheme to win out which would lend itself to other plans than as a memorial to Abraham Lincoln for a memorial on the one hundredth birthday should typify no other plan or thought than that presented by the life and character of Lincoln.

The park plan is one that should not have support by reason of the lateness of the hour at which it is sprung. If the park idea had any virtue it could have been exploited throughout the country months ago. It comes at the eleventh hour to steal if possible the thunder of the Lincoln Memorial Highway, which has been presented to the country in magazine and newspaper and has been endorsed all over the land. Congress would certainly not permit the memorial highway that the country has approved of to be retired in favor of a last hour scheme involving the sale to the Government of a big lot of Washington real estate.

We have the utmost confidence in the Lincoln Memorial Highway being the right memorial and that it will win out.

STREET LIGHTING.

The borough authorities have advertised for contracts for street lighting and suggest a change of system of lighting by asking bids for ten arc lights and one hundred and fifteen Tungsten lights. It is to be presumed that final action is to be postponed and to be decided at a later time just what the lighting of the town shall be, whether by arc lights as at present or by a different system, so that according to the advertisement bids can be submitted for lighting the town according to the present plan, or by any other plan the bidder may choose, but bids are specially desired for lighting with the Tungsten lights.

There may be much to be said on the subject of lighting. The present system of arc lights is entirely satisfactory, and Gettysburg is a well lit town to compare favorably with towns of similar size and having enjoyed this convenience for fifteen years the citizens will not be satisfied with less. For many years the citizens have been satisfied to have about one-third of the total income go for well lighted streets. A recently 115 Tungsten lights would give more lights but less light. [illegible] twelve hundred candle power [illegible] lights and 115 Tungsten [illegible] lower lights would give [illegible] candle power for town [illegible] at present over 30,000 [illegible] is being used, hence we [illegible] lights for less light. Any [illegible] system of lighting should be [illegible] considered [illegible] so as to keep the town [illegible] in this particular.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Gettysburg women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof in a Gettysburg woman's words:

Mrs. John Menchey, 48 Breckinridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I have always been nervous and in poor health and recently when an attack of kidney trouble came on, I was unable to work. I suffered from severe pains in my back and I also had chills. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box at the Peoples Drug Store. They restored my health and I am now in a better condition than before in a long time. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this improvement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for United States.

ABOUT ADVERTISING—NO. 1

The Perambulating Showcase

By Herbert Kaufman.

The newspaper is a huge shop window, carried about the city and delivered daily into hundreds of thousands of homes, to be examined at the leisure of the reader. This shop window is unlike the actual plate glass showcase only in one respect—it makes display of descriptions instead of articles.

You have often been impressed by the difference between the decorations of two window-trimmers, each of whom employed the same materials for his work. The one drew your attention and held it by the grace and cleverness and art manifested in his display. The other realized so little of the possibilities in the materials placed at his disposal that unless some one called your attention to his bungling you would have gone on unconscious of its existence.

An advertiser must know that he gets his results in accordance with the skill exercised in preparing his verbal displays. He must make people stop and pause. His copy has to stand out.

He must not only make a show of things that are attractive to the eye but are attractive to the people's needs as well.

The window-trimmer must not make the mistake of thinking that the showiest stocks are the most salable. The advertiser must not make the mistake of thinking that the showiest words are the most clinching.

Windows are too few in number to be used with indiscretion. The good merchant puts those goods back of his plate glass which nine people out of ten will want after they have seen them.

The good advertiser tells about goods which nine readers out of ten will buy if they can be convinced.

Newspaper space itself is only the window, just as the showcase is but a frame for merchandise pictures. A window on a crowded street in the best neighborhood, where prosperous persons pass continually, is more desirable than one in a cheap, sparsely settled neighborhood. An advertisement in a newspaper with the most readers and the most prosperous ones possesses a great advantage over the same copy in a medium circulating among persons who possess less means. It would be foolish for a shop to build its windows in the alleyway—and just as much so to put its advertising into newspapers which are distributed among "alley-dwellers."

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Official Song of the Keystone State

--By Edgar M. Dilley.

Tho' we may go across the sea,
Far from Columbia's gates,
Our first allegiance is to thee,
Our own United States.
And while we name the land we love,
How gladly we shall tell,
The glory of the story of
The State we love so well.

CHORUS.

Pennsylvania! Pennsylvania!
Pennsylvania, the Keystone State!
To thee we raise our song,
To thee our hearts belong.
Pennsylvania! Pennsylvania!
Pennsylvania, the Keystone State!

'Twas by the silvery Delaware,
The nation had its birth,
When North and South joined hands to dare
The strongest power of earth;
And loud from Independence Hall,
The Bell of Liberty,
Proclaimed to all the world the fall,
Of foreign tyranny.
—Chorus.

The Union's safety on the sea,
Its wealth and power on land,
Oh Pennsylvania, is of thee
Comes from thy lavish hand,
Along the Allegheny's tide,
Thy heart of steel is won;
And from thy side the warships glide,
Thy coal shall drive them on.
—Chorus.

From Valley Forge's ice and snow,
To Gettysburg's red field—
Tho' centuries may come and go,
And battle wounds are healed—
None truer fought on land or sea,
None braver faced the guns,
To die for thee, Land of the Free,
Than Pennsylvania's Sons.
—Chorus.

--Edgar M. Dilley.

Now is the Time to Build.

Ever since the beginning of the panic of 1907 the cost of building has steadily fallen. The present season finds lumber cheaper than in many years past, or than it will be in a long time again. The big consumers of lumber have gone out of the market, leaving the lumbermen with huge stocks on their hands. The result has been a big drop in price. Iron, steel, bricks and other building commodities have also fallen in price. The cost of building, therefore, is 15 to 25 per cent. less than it was last year.

Building a home is not such a difficult matter, after all. It is so easy, in fact, that no one who really wants a home need go without one. Because they have got a lump sum of four or five thousand dollars many persons regard the project of home building on a small income as sheer madness. Others are afraid to take the risk. To them the word mortgage is a bugbear. No one who is healthy and steady need be afraid to make the venture. One has to pay rent, and whoever can pay rent can build a home.

Not every one, to be sure can build a five thousand dollar home, yet every one who really wants a home can build one of some kind. A motorman by rigid economy saved one hundred dollars, and with it he bought a suburban lot. He got his friends to help him odd times in excavating a cellar. Meantime, he saved more money and bought lumber. When his money ran out, as it soon did, he was able to complete his house by the help of a building and loan association. His house is worth one thousand dollars. He is paying for it in monthly installments of eight dollars. Already he has lived in it a year. In a little more than ten years he will own his house outright.—From the January "Circle" Magazine.

Accused of Serious Matter.

Dewitt C. Hillegass, a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1875, who will be remembered by a number of our citizens, has become involved in the troubles of the Boyertown National Bank.

The troubles of the Boyertown National Bank, which led to its suspension about two years ago, after the discovery of a large shortage in the accounts of the cashier, had a sensational sequel last week, when Dewitt C. Hillegass of Philadelphia, a well-known insurance broker, with offices in the Drexel Building, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshal Thomas, charged by Bank Examiner Falds with being responsible for the misappropriation of $101,000 of the bank's funds. It is charged that Hillegass, whose name was prominently mentioned at the time of the bank's embarrassment, got the money by fraud and deceit and conspiracy with J. D. Hartman, the former cashier, who has since been tried.

Hillegas was at once taken before United States Commissioner Craig for a hearing. United States District Attorney charged him with having deposited worthless checks in the bank and having had them placed to his credit as good, getting, by connivance with Cashier Hartman, credit for the full value and drawing from the bank money equal to the face value of the checks. These amounted to $80,000. It is claimed that $21,000 was secured by other means. The withdrawal of this $101,000 within 14 months caused the suspension of the bank, whose directors were compelled to make good the shortage before it was allowed to reopen.

Commissioner Craig held Hillegass in $10,000 bail for a further hearing on January 18, but subsequently reduced the amount to $5,000. It was said that Hillegass had been under surveillance for some time and that the Government has been quietly working up its case ever since Hartman's trial.

BLOOD

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor. There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high we are being refreshed—bone, muscle and brain, in body and mind—with continual flow of rich blood. This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take

MAKES LIVING IN PEAFOWLS.

Last year I made $310 on my peafowls, and when all my birds are sold this year I expect to make about $25 more," said a young girl from the middle west, who recently visited New York. "We live on a farm and my father allows each of us to have some trench-making animal or fowl of our own.

"Five years ago I selected peafowls, because they are so pretty. My father invested $25 in a cock and two hens for me, with the understanding that I was to refund the money as soon as possible. Unfortunately one of the hens was a young bird and only laid three eggs that year. The other laid eight, which, according to my calculation, showed that she was in her fifth year. From the eleven eggs I raised nine birds, which I sold for $15 per pair, keeping the odd hen to add to my flock. After paying my father I had $35 to draw on for food and other expenses during the year.

"Perhaps I should state that it is my father's rule to allow us all the first year's food for our fowls or animals free of charge. After that year we are expected to pay for every item of expense. Fortunately for me peafowls are able and willing to forage for a living and as a consequence need very little extra food. During the warm months, when they have the fields and woods to roam in, they really need no feed beyond a handful of corn night and morning, to make them know where home is.

"My first birds were the Indian peafowl, the ones you see most frequently here in America. They are also the least expensive and have the loudest voice. As soon as I found out about the green Java peafowl being so much more in demand and fetching better prices, of course I was eager to invest. It took all that I had made during my third year to buy two good birds. If good ones had ever sold for less than $150 here in America I have not been able to find the place. That is one of the things I am hoping to find: some family way off in the country with a flock of Java birds, which they are willing to sell cheap. I shall have one pair to sell this year, and shall keep the other five, four hens and one cock, that I have raised.

"No, I have not found the Java peafowls a bit more difficult to raise than India birds, but last year all my Java chicks were killed one way or another, so that I had no increase. This year, for fear of losing the stock, my father insists that I keep all but one pair for which I took an order soon after buying the old birds.

"The raising of peafowls is not more difficult than the raising of turkeys, and treatment is very much the same. The hens of my India fowls have all proved themselves to be excellent mothers, but I was so much in doubt about the capability of the Java hen that after her failure the first year I experimented with a trusted barnyard fowl, which I bought of my mother. She managed her peachicks as easily and contented as though they had been her own eggs. It was rather amusing to watch her when they got strong enough to jump and fly over places that she couldn't even attempt. The young birds finally deserted her altogether and annexed themselves to the flock of Indian peachicks.

"While there are several drawbacks to raising peafowls with other poultry, there is one great advantage. Living in the west we are often annoyed by hawks and owls. If there is a better way of scaring off these pests we have never found it. It is the habit of these birds to perch themselves on top of the tallest tree to be found after their morning feeding and before they begin to forage in the afternoon. It is usually just at this time that the hawks annoy us the most. Let a peacock catch sight of a hawk and he lets out the most earsplitting screech that any one could imagine. Instantly all the other fowls for miles around seek cover. They know what it means and the hawk knows that he has been discovered.

"I am hoping some day to have a white peafowl. These are freaks and do not belong to one of the two varieties any more than to the other. They usually sell for about $50 a pair, and when perfectly white are much sought after. All of my orders have come from fanciers or from people who want the birds for display. The market is said to be good and the prices steady, especially for the green Java birds. I have no difficulty in placing my orders the year before, but my father thinks it is wise to keep the flock down to ten hens and four cocks.

"The important [illegible] we have had to test the food quality of peafowls was when three of my young Java birds were killed accidentally by an ignorant hunter, who saw them perched in a tall tree and mistook them for wild turkeys. He killed all three, and while he was not able to pay the cost of the birds when he found out his mistake, he was honest enough to return us the dead birds. We ate them and found them sweeter and more tender than a turkey of the same age. My mother insists that they were the most delicious meat she has ever eaten. I was so busy thinking of the money I had lost that I'm afraid I couldn't fully appreciate the flavor."

Big West Va. Natural Gas Project.

The Standard Oil Co. proposes to pipe natural gas from the West Virginia field to Baltimore, a distance of 200 miles and it is said that all arrangements have been made to complete line so as to supply gas within the next 60 days.

It is proposed to put down mains of sufficient diameter not only to furnish Baltimore with all the gas it needs, but also to be in a position to lay lateral lines into Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick and Westminster and at any point where the consumption will be sufficient to justify a satisfactory return on the expense of reaching the consuming point, and this evidently would include portions of southern Pennsylvania. At present the objective point is Baltimore, and to reach it with an air line. The effort will be to sell the gas to the local companies but if any trouble is encountered with companies, those interested will seek franchises so as to deal directly with consumers.

When a representative was asked about the supply of gas in the West Virginia field, he answered: "That is almost unlimited. Our experts in mineralogy and in geology have made exhaustive examinations. They have reported that the supply of gas to be produced will run practically for ages. There is talk of the exhaustion of the coal supply of this country. No one has yet been found to give a definite opinion as to the limit of time when this will occur. So it is with this gas field. We have selected the most prolific, and it is not likely that such shrewd commercial men as conduct the vast Standard Oil interests would venture their money into such an enterprise unless they had prudently investigated and informed themselves that a profit was immediate and secure."

It is admitted that the Standard Oil is back of the project, has been working on it for many months, has secured rights of way from West Virginia to city limits of Baltimore, and that the announcement of the project was only made when everything had been completed to go ahead. It is figured out by those interested in the undertaking that oil and coal gas is produced artificially at a cost of from 20 to 35 cents a thousand cubic feet and that it costs to distribute it from 15 to 20 cents a thousand feet more, which would include office expenses, so that the cost of the oil and coal gas is figured at not less than 50 cents and not over 60 cents a thousand feet, and it is proposed to sell the West Virginia gas for fifty cents, or in that neighborhood. In other words they will be able to sell at a price that can not be competed with.

Causes of Divorce.

The government in collecting marriage and divorce statistics have made public the following facts as to divorces.

The most common single ground for divorce is desertion. This accounts for 38.9 per cent. of all divorces (period 1887 to 1906): 49.4 per cent. or almost one-half of those granted to the husband, and 33.5 per cent., or one-third, of those granted to the wife.

The next most important ground of divorce is, for husbands, adultery and for wives, cruelty. Of the divorces granted to husbands (1887 to 1906) 28.8 per cent. were for adultery: and of those granted to wives 27.5 per cent. were for cruelty. Only 10 per cent. of the divorces granted to for adultery of the husband, and 10.5 per cent. of divorces granted to husbands were for cruelty on the part of the wife.

Drunkenness was the ground for divorce in 5.3 per cent. of the cases in which the wife brought suit, and in 1.1 per cent. of the cases in which the suit was brought by the husband.

The above percentages represent those cases in which the specified cause was the sole ground on which the divorce was granted. Very frequently, however, divorces are granted not upon one ground only, but upon two or more in combination.

In many cases in which drunkenness or intemperance was not recognized in the decree of the court as a ground for divorce it appears to have been present as a contributory influence. Intemperance was, in fact, reported as an indirect or contributory cause of divorce in 5 per cent. of the divorces granted to the wife, and appeared as a direct or indirect cause in 19.5 per cent. of those granted to wives and 6.1 per cent. of those granted to husbands.

His three remarkable treatments for the different kinds and complications of dropsy are the result of twenty-eight years of profound research and great success in treating diseases of the heart, liver, kidneys and dropsy which often complicate each case. So wonderful are the cures by these treatments that the Doctor will give a free trial to all who write for it.

Mrs. Elvina Sonders, Decatur, Nebr., age 71, suffered thirty years, cured after ten physicians failed. Mr. John Betz, Ft. Recovery, Ohio "Friends had given up hope." Relieved at once and cured. Mrs. L. Vogel, Saginaw, Mich. "Given up by physicians. Thought my last hour was near." Quickly cured. Mrs. W. A. Bertwell, Willis, Kans. Suffered 25 years. Cured in four months. Mr. C. A. Killinger, Shippensburg, Pa. Cured after four physicians failed to relieve. Says, "Your Special Treatment did wonders." Mrs. M. S. Nibarger, Anderson, Cal. Suffered for years. Cured after local physicians failed. Hundreds of patients have been cured who were pronounced incurable by many physicians. Many remarkable cures from your state sent upon request.

Dr. Miles' Grand Dropsy Treatments are much superior to any others and to obtain the best results they are specially prescribed for each patient. Every afflicted person should send for his Dropsy Book and $3.75 treatment free. Describe your disease. Address, Dr. Franklin Miles, Dept. D 408 to 418 Main Street, Elkhart, Ind.

Magazine

THAT HARPER'S is enabled to publish the best short stories in the world is perhaps as much a matter of good fortune as of wise planing. It is the MAGAZINE most widely known wherever our English tongue is spoken, and to which the writers of all the world come first with their best work.

Planning years in advance, HARPER'S sends out its own expeditions into far-away lands. In science it is the one and only non-technical MAGAZINE for which the great men of science in Europe will consent to write.

Margaret Deland has written a great novel for HARPER'S MAGAZINE' which will begin late in 1909.

There will be dramatic true stories of the daring lives of the spies in the Civil War, narratives of travel in many lands, fascinating articles on nature, art, reminiscence, a remarkable series of pictures in color by Howard Pyle, presenting great scenes in American history.

There will be seven short stories in every number.

Bazar

HARPER'S BAZAR sets the fashion. For 1909 it will be bigger, better, stronger. It will uphold its high standard as the representative magazine of the typical American woman, with ambition to make the most of life for herself and for her family.

She may or may not have wealth, but there are millions of her, and the BAZAR'S success has been built upon her discovery that this magazine, more than any other, helps her to realize her legitimate ambition.

HARPER'S BAZAR is edited for the woman who wishes to be a good wife, a good mother, a good home-maker, a good club member, a well-dressed woman, and a good hostess. HARPER'S BAZAR tells her how. The greatest writers and thinkers of to-day are helping in this through the BAZAR.

Women can give no better holiday gift to their friends than a year's subscription to HARPER'S BAZAR, beginning with the Christmas number. A special card will be sent to each recipient of such a gift informing her of it and giving her the name of the donor.

Weekly

HARPER'S WEEKLY, in its newly enlarged form, offers to its readers these signal advantages: As a weekly publication it is enabled to select from the news of the world only those happenings which are of permanent interest and importance, and present them pictorially with a quality of actual printing which is unequalled in this country.

Its "Comment" is the product of scholarly discrimination and sane optimism, and not written in the haste of "going to press," as is too often of necessity the case with the daily newspaper. Despite their tolerant good-humor, they are none the less trenchant in their effectiveness.

Every week there are pages of original humor of the wholesome kind, to which the best-known humorists and artists contribute. Then, too, there is fiction by the foremost writers of the day.

In a word HARPER'S WEEKLY stands in a field of its own, with but one idea in its preparation, that of interesting the intelligent and truth-loving readers.

North American Review

HAS been recognized for over ninety years as one of the most influential periodicals in the world. Established the year of Napoleon's great battle at Waterloo (1815), its purpose has been, and still is, to make itself indispensable to any man or woman who desires to keep abreast of the bess thought of the day.

Within the year practically every topic of national and international importance in all departments of activity is treated in the REVIEW by a recognized authority. No periodical numbers among its contributors so many of the famous statesmen, divines, scientists, educators, diplomats, and men of affairs of every country.

In addition to this the editor of the REVIEW speaks each month, through the pages of the Editor's Diary, on topics of current interest, and in the Department of World Politics the political situation in all the leading countries of the world is presented by special correspondents in high places in the world's capitals.

MAKE THIS YOURSELF

SAYS MANY PERSONS HERE CAN BE MADE HAPPY AGAIN.

Tells How Any One Can Prepare Simple Home-Made Mixture, Said to Overcome Rheumatism.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple receipt is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffer from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Will Issue New Series.

The directory of the Gettysburg Building and Loan Association have authorized the issue of another series of stock (16th series): the first payment to be made on Saturday, February 6th, 1909. GOV. STUART'S MESSAGE

THE STATE HIGHWAY RECOMMENDED.

But Not to go Through Adams Co. Important Matters as to Roads and Schools Considered.

Governor Stuart's Message.

The message sent by Gov. Stuart to the Legislature last week is one of the most practical state papers submitted to the legislative branch of the government and there is much in it that directly interests the people of Gettysburg and Adams county and specially as follows :

State Highway.

This community had been in high hope that the State Highway which Gov. Stuart intimated last summer work, he recommended to the Legislature would follow the old Philadelphia and Pittsburg turnpike and pass through Adams county from one end to the other. In this hope this community is disappointed in the message of Gov. Stuart as the route he recommends would be via Harrisburg. He intimates that the line may be subject to local changes and if the Lincoln Memorial Highway is authorized by Congress it certainly should bring about a change, for a State Highway and the Memorial Highway ought to touch each other at some point. The Governor in detail says:

State System of Highways.

"The work of constructing the highways must not, however, be left entirel, to the state. The different counties and townships have authority to construct highways, and should exercise this power. The state should inaugurate this system of main highways connecting the several county seats; the county should construct the county roads connecting important points in the county; and the township system of byroads, leading to the main ones, should be constructed by the township, or by the township and the county jointly. If intelligent, practical and good business methods are employed in the construction of roads, the result will place Pennsylvania among the first of the good-roads states

"As the commencement of such a system, I recommend for your serious consideration and approval the building and maintenance, entirely by the state, of a road to extend from the seaboard to the Ohio Valley, between the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, via Harrisburg, the capital.

"This highway should be in the interest of the greatest number. The route is sufficiently precise as to location to be a decisive and fair plan. The line may be subject to local changes, without avoiding the cardinal objective points. Thus populous centers will be traversed and important cities and county seats will be connected, representing a county population of more then 50 per cent. of the entire population of the commonwealth.

"No other line for a main road can be found which would reach so large a proportion of the state's population, or which would serve so many useful purposes. I recommend that the determination of the exact route be placed in the hands of the highway commissioner, the attorney general and the Governor."

New School Code

Gov. Stuart states that the School Commisison will have ready for the Legislature a school code adequate to the needs and commensurate with the demands of present advanced conditions, which is commended to the careful consideration of the Legislature.

The Public Health.

It is stated that $60,000 of the one million appropriation to fight tuberculosis has been devoted to Mont Alto Sanatorium, where accommodations for 546 persons have been completed. The antitoxin freely furnished to fight diphtheria has reduced deaths to 7.15 per cent as against 42 per cent. before introduction of the antitoxin.

Conserving the Forests.

The State now owns 857,500 acres of forests and 110,000 acres under contract and the policy of the state in buying timberland and reforesting is recommended to be continued and preventative measures from forest fires.

Agriculture.

Gov. Stuart refers to Pennsylvania as ranking fifth as an agricultural state and to the work of the state in the encouragement of farming. Of the farmers' institutes that have been held. Of the dairy and food division and changes needed in pure food laws to effectively protect the people. Of the work of division zoology in driving out fruit pests which will be vigorously continued and of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board and successful fight made to suppress the foot and mouth disease.

Gov. Stuart in his message treats of all branches of the government, the work being done and to be done in the future making many practical suggestions, the one on roads and highways concerning every county and township. He refers to the dissatisfaction with the present system of piecemeal work and is of the opinion that the state should build trunk lines connecting county seats and the county roads connecting important points in the county and township byroads. That the state should take over all abandoned turnpikes, and that the maintenance of all highways ... state should ... the state ... ship their ... state of the ...

The Pure Food Law.

Secretary Wilson says, "One of the objects of the law is to inform the consumer of the presence of certain harmful drugs in medicines." The law requires that the amount of chloroform, opium, morphine, and other habit forming drugs be stated on the label of each bottle. The manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy have always claimed that their remedy did not contain any of these drugs, and the truth of this claim is now fully proven as no mention of them is made on the label. This remedy is not only one of the safest, but one of the best in use for coughs and colds. Its value has been proven beyond question during the many years it has been in general use. An Alcohol School.

The Government has now opened its alcohol school in the city of Washington for the instruction of the people of the United States in proper methods of making and using the denatured alcohol.

For this purpose a model still has been erected close by the Department of Agriculture which is big enough to take up twenty-five bushels of corn a day, converting that quantity of grain into seventy-five gallons of 95 per cent alcohol—that is to say, 95 per cent pure. The plant represents the small outfit that can be conducted profitably on a commercial scale.

The farmers cannot very well see it for themselves, so arrangements have been made by which they may learn about it. Agricultural experts from the experiment stations in every one of the states are to go to Washington, examine the alcohol making outfit, see how it works and listen to a course of lectures explaining its management. It will be their business when they go home to teach the farmers how to put up and how to operate plants of this character.

Inasmuch as a plant could not be erected for less than $2,500 it is obvious that the ordinary farmer would not be able to afford to construct one of the kind. But—and here is the point—a group of farmers representing a small neighborhood might easily do so.

Then they would bring their cornstalks and other such refuse to the "mill" and receive in return the alcohol. It is a simple method which farmers have long been accustomed to adopt where flour and other necessaries were concerned.

The farmers are eager to find a cheap source of energy. Nowadays multitudes of them use gasolene for such purposes as grinding feed, cutting fodder and running the corn sheller, circular saw, horse clipper and grindstone.

A farm in these times is more or less of a factory. But gasolene is expensive. Alcohol is comparatively cheap, and when manufactured from the farmer's own vegetable refuse it would cost next to nothing.

In France there are 27,000 farmer distillers who make alcohol for industrial purposes from molasses and sugar beets. It is high time that this idea was turned to profitable account in the United States. Rotten apples, frost bitten potatoes, stale water melons, cornstalks and cobs and every other kind of vegetable refuse are available for the purpose.

Fulton County Prospects.

Fulton county has prospects of a railroad. A line has been surveyed from the Pennsylvania railroad to McConnellsburg, a great part in the valley in which that town is located so that an easy grade is secured. It is said the road will be built within 18 months. The Fulton county citizens are asked to give right of way in county and ground for terminal at McConnellsburg and it is said there will be little difficulty to secure what is asked.

Coal is reported to have been discovered in Fulton county within a mile and a half of McConnellsburg. A shaft 50 feet in length has developed a seven foot vein of white ash coal. The railroad and discovery of coal makes the prospects for little Fulton very bright for the future.

At Last.

Mrs. Silas Bennett was a philosopher. On a certain dismal occasion some of the neighboring women were condoling with her. With commendable cheerfulness she replied:

"I've raised four girls an' three boys, expectin' every time they'd be twins and red headed like their Grandpa Bennett, an' yet they ain't.

"An' I've worried consid'ble over smallpox breakin' out in my big family. So fer 'tain't.

"Last summer durin' July an' August an' mebbe part of September I was real melancholic, fearin' I'd got an appendix, but I guess I ain't.

"An' through it all it never onct occurred to me that I'd be the one to fall through them rotten old meetin' house steps an' break my leg in two places, but I be."

Goldsmith's Actor.

Lord Nugent was one evening very eloquent to Goldsmith in praise of M. ... "... my lord," said Goldsmith, "you must allow he treads the stage very ill—he waddles."

"Waddles?" said Lord Nugent.

"Yes, he waddles like a goose. Why, you know we call him Goose M. Well, and then, you know, when he endeavors to express strong passion he bellows."

"Bellows?" said Lord Nugent.

"To be sure he does—bellows like a bull. Why, we call him Bull M. Well, Then," continued Goldsmith, pursuing his triumph, "his voice breaks, and he croaks."

"Croaks?" said Lord Nugent.

"Why, the fellow croaks like a frog. We call him Frog M."

"But M. is a good actor."

"Why, yes," said Goldsmith, "barring the goose and the bull and the frog and a few other things I could mention, and, not wishing to speak ill of my neighbors, I will allow M. is a good actor."—"Memoirs of the Earl of Nugent."

The Gypsy Life.

"Just as soon as my husband and I have $500 saved up besides our fare we are going back to England," said a woman player. "Then we are going to buy one of those gypsy wagons they have over there. They are too awfully jolly for words, don't you know. They are quite wide, have bunks, a cunning little kitchen and sitting room. You wander through the country all day; then at night you stop, cook your supper, sit under the trees and sleep out in the open or in the wagon, just as you choose. Many of my artist and theatrical friends have them and just wander from place to place. It is an ideal way to live; beats houseboats or bungalows. If you have ever slept out in the open and watched the stars over your head you feel smothered in a bedroom. I played through Australia, and we went from place to place in a big wagon, sleeping out of doors at night."—New York Times.

Ballooning Among the Clouds.

It has been my lot to see in arctic regions some hundreds of thousands of icebergs close at hand, and I have always believed them to be the most beautiful objects on earth, but the clouds of the sky, close at hand, are almost as beautiful. If you mount above one of these majestic things, swiftly overtopping one by one its folds and wreaths, and if remembering how high it is you look down and see only small green patches of earth through holes in the cloud carpet below, you have a little thrill of conception of how lonely a man would feel falling away down there and not being able to see the spot where he must alight. It is a safe little thrill, however. You know that you are not going to fall. Such dizziness as some persons feel in standing near great heights on the earth is almost unknown in ballooning.—Albert White Vorse in Success Magazine.

Six His Limit.

To the man who has a horse to sell considerable leeway is allowed in the matter of setting forth the animal's merits. "I've got the very horse you want," said Gideon Lane, the Bushby livery stable keeper, to one of the summer residents.

"He has no bad tricks?" queried the gentleman. "Safe for the family?"

"Lanzee, yes," returned Mr. Lane heartily. "Any lady can drive him and half a dozen children could get on his back and he'd never notice 'em. Not a trick to his name."

"Ah," said the summer resident, "I don't wish a horse without any spirit."

"Spirit!" echoed Mr. Lane. "Well, you just ought to see him on circus day, that's all. And I'll tell you confidentially 'twouldn't be well for too many people to get on that horse at once."—Youth's Companion.

The Jews and Thirteen.

Commenting on the thirteen superstitions in the ... Woche schrift, Jacob E. Ehrlich, a Jewish writer, says: "The number thirteen is surely not a bad one for us. Public Penance.

In former times persons guilty of grievous and notorious offenses were required to make open confession and, further, to make satisfaction for the scandal given by their bad example by doing penance publicly in a white sheet in their parish church. The sheet was used to show clearly to every one which was the offender. The last time that public penance was done in an English church was on Sunday evening, July 30, 1882, when a man named Harfree, in the church of All Saints, East Clevedon, made an open confession of immorality and promised to perform the penance thus imposed on him by the vicar. No white sheet was used on this occasion. The last case in which one was used appears to have been one in St. Bridget's church, Chester, in 1851, but on that occasion the penance was not public, the church door being locked. In the previous year, however, public penance in a white sheet was done in a country church in Essex, and a similar thing occurred in Ditton church, near Cambridge, in 1849.—Stray Stories.

An Unexpected Check.

A man who won a reputation for cool daring and almost eccentric fearlessness along a thousand miles of the southwestern border was A. L. Parrott, at one time a sergeant in McNelly's company of Texan rangers. One night in 1875, about six months after Parrott left the state service, he was sitting in a house in a little town in southwest Texas playing chess with a friend. It was a warm night, and the chessboard was on a table close to an open window. Parrott had the white men. His queen was in a direct line with the black king, but a black knight was between the two pieces. It was Parrott's move. Suddenly there was a sharp report outside, and a bullet whistled in through the window, hit the black knight and buried itself in the wall. Parrott had been bending over the board, and the bullet was evidently intended for his head. But for a few seconds he did not stir. He saw the black knight suddenly vanish. Then in his peculiar drawling, hesitating way he said, "Check!"

The Stone of Infamy.

In many Italian cities there formerly existed what was called "pietra d'infamie," or a stone of infamy for the punishment of bankrupts. In Venice one stands near the Church of St. Mark, and in Verona and Florence they are near the old markets. On a day in carnival week the old time custom was to have all traders who had become bankrupt in the preceding twelve months led to the stone, and one by one each stood on its center to hear the reading of a report of his business failure and to endure the reproaches heaped on him by his creditors. At the end of a certain time each bankrupt was partly undressed, and three officers took hold of his shoulders and three others of his knees and, raising him as high as they could, bumped him on the stone deliberately twelve times, "in honor of the twelve apostles," the creditors crowing like cocks while the bumping proceeded.

Wigs and Trousers.

The wig went out and gave place to the natural hair, powered and pigtailed, as a result of the movement back to nature which accompanied and preceded the French revolution. But why did the wig come in? Some say that Louis XIII. started the fashion when he began to grow bald, the court imitating him out of a desire to please the monarch. Be that as it may, the wig "caught on" as few articles of costume have ever done, and those who have begun to despair of the masculine leg ever being emancipated from the trouser may find comfort in the fact that wigs prevailed for considerably more than a century in England, whereas trousers scarcely existed a hundred years ago, to say nothing of being the universal wear.—London News.

Mother Earth.

When Junius Brutus and the sons of Tarquin asked the famous Delphic oracle who was to succeed Superbus on the throne of Rome they received for an answer, "He who shall first kiss his mother." As the two princes were hastening home to fulfill what they thought was meant Brutus fell to the earth and cried out, "Thus do I kiss thee, O Earth, the mother of us all." This is perhaps the earliest record of instance of the use of the term "Mother Earth."—Exchange.
